Daring Burglar Enters 3 Homes; Chased One Block

ENGINEER GIVES CHASE WITH GUN, THUG ESCAPES

A daring burglar ransacked three adjoining cottages on Second street last night, and escaped in the darkness after a chase of one block by J. F. Scott, a Santa Fe engineer. The homes burglarized were:

Dee Leephart, 127 Second street.
F. G. Conn, 121 Second street.
J. F. Scott, 119 Second street.

Both the Leephart and Conn homes were deserted at the time of the robbery. Scott was asleep when he heard footfalls in a rear bedroom. Opening the door he came face to face with the intruder, a tall, smooth shaven man supposedly an Italian. At the sight of Scott the burglar struck a match and turning leaped through a screen window. Scott re-entered his bedoom and securing a revolver gave chase to the man.

The charred ends of matches were found in the rooms of each of the houses entered. Although everything was turned toepy-turvy in the Conn and Leephart homes, a razor is all that is reported missing that being taken from the Conn residence.

Police were immediately notified and a search of the vicinity made. No trace of the man could be found.

Inspector Virgil Phillips secured a number of fingerprints at the Conn and Leephart homes this morning. Police headquarters were reticent regarding the robbery. "It was a very quiet Sunday, not a thing stirring," was their answer to the newspapers.

G. A. R. TO HONOR DEAD LAST OF MONTH

Nearly fifty years ago the Grand Army of the Republic in National convention assembled, named May 30th as a day of mourning of the organization then just formed, and passed the order on to the soldiers of the Civil war to observe this day as long as one who served his country in that war remained to answer to the call.

Since then the whole country has fallen into line and made the 30th of May the day dedicated to the memory of the departed comrades, friends and relatives.

In pursuance of this custom so established, there will be memorial services held in Wesley M. E. church on Sunday, May 28th at 11 o'clock a. m. at which time there will be appropriate addresses delivered by a number of speakers, and music fitting for the occasion rendered.

We will adjourn this meeting to meet again at Sunset View cemetery on May 30th at 11 o'clock, where ritualistic services will be rendered by all organizations that will join with the G. A. R. in this—a proper observation of the day.

The program, which will be arranged later, will include the firing of a salute to the dead and decorating the graves with flowers.

The public is urged to join in the services on both the above dates. Organizations wishing to take part are urged to notify Patriotic Instructor Levi Boswell at the earliest possible date, who will place them on the program, which will be published later.

"HAS AN AX TO GRIND"

"Beware of him—he has an ax to grind!"

Thus have we been wont to be warned against the individual who, seemingly impressed with personal importance and seeking only to make himself agreeable, was quite likely to develop a desire for getting from us some service beneficial to himself.

We recall the story which gave the "ax to grind" expression to the world. A boy had been pleasantly greeted by a man. The latter offered to permit the youth to turn a grindstone, complimenting the youngster constantly upon the manly way in which he tackled the task. And in the end, the boy found that the man merely desired the ax ground.

"Beware the man who flatters you," cried the boy, "for he has an ax to grind!"

Well, doubtless it is true. The flattery may be offered in such form as to be scarcely discernible for what it is. The man with the ax to grind may be clever at the task of getting the work done. He ought to be; it is an important undertaking.

And that brings us to the thought really in mind. Hasn't the man with an ax to grind been rather over-abused in all the years since the grindstone-weary boy uttered his warning complaint? May not the "man with the ax to grind" be a fellow whose cause is worth a less acute individual's time at the grindstone?

What a multitude of axes must be ground in this world! Why, when you come to think of it, there are really few undertakings, large or small, which can be put through on a straight appeal for support because of what they are. Think of the arguments necessary in obtaining a bond issue for school purposes, municipal improvements, county institutions, state causes, national enterprise. It is not sufficient that the plain need of the proposition be presented to the people. Reason upon reason—the more unusual and far-fetched the better, maybe—must be put forward to achieve the end sought. There may be—doubtless there is—some private benefit to be derived by individuals sponsoring the movement. And we have been so constantly warned against the "man with the ax to grind" that we deprive a community or a county or a state or the nation itself of something admittedly much needed merely for the sake of depriving those few individuals of the profit they may reap from the turning of the grindstone.

It is not comforting to try to imagine what this country would be today but for the man who had an ax he wanted ground.

He caused railways to be built, telegraphs and telephones to be installed, factories to be erected, wildernesses to be brought under cultivation, villages and towns and cities to dot the land, education to make possible to every individual. He got the ax ground, it is true—but see what the people as a whole obtained!

Though there are a lot of commissioned army aviators, Corporal Smith holds the time record for being up in the air. You can't hold that Smith family down.

Wonder what the Minnesota Chippewa Indian who went to the White House bearing gifts made by his squaw for Mrs. Wilson asked for himself?

FIGHTING THE WAVES

When some daring scientist proposed, a few years ago, to "run wheels on air" and so take up the shock-and-jar of road vehicle, he was greeted with derisive laughter. But the pneumatic tire succeeded just the same, and everybody now recognizes the superiority of elastic air over steel springs.

Last year Philip Thrasher, a young engineer from Pinceton university, ventured to suggest that air might be used to break the force of ocean waves. A disastrous storm on the Atlantic had smashed many piers and bulkheads along the new Jersey coast. Thrasher's idea was to fight the waves with a line of air bubbles. And of course he was laughed at for imagining that bubbles were more powerful than wood, steel and concrete.

The idea has just been given a trial, however, on the Pacific coast and has proved to be amazingly successful. The Standard Oil company has a long pier at El Segundo, near Los Angeles. Half of it had been swept away by storms. The manager decided to see whether bubbles would save the other half. He ran a pipe out for a short distance beyond the wharf, and laid a perforated section on the bottom, thirty feet below the surface, running for 120 feet parallel with the end of the wharf. It was connected with air compressors. When another severe storm came, the air was turned on.

The waves were rolling fifteen feet high. But the moment they struck that swarm of rising bubbles, they mysteriously collapsed. Nothing was left of them but smooth, harmless rollers.

It is a ridiculously simple discovery, and yet a remarkable one, likely to prove useful the world over. It is possible that some harbors may adopt the air pipe as a complet substitute for breakwaters, for the sake of economy.

The next state election to be held will be the August primary for the purpose of nominating candidates for the United States senate, the house of representatives, the state senate and the assembly. This election will be under the direct primary law of 1913, the new law enacted by the legislature in special session, having been held up by the referendum. The elector to vote at the August primary must be registered according to party affiliation. Those who are not, cannot participate in the party nominations. Registration for the primary closes thirty days prior to the election day, an dthose who have not heretofore registered their party affiliation may do so at any time up to thirty days before the election.

As though they didn't have trouble enough, there isn't a nation in the war that somebody isn't predicting revolution for when it's over.

In showing that public opinion is a factor in his conduct of our foreign relations, Lansing furnished additional evidence that he's on the job.

It may be true, as said, both sides are rapidly nearing financial exhaustion, but the fighting is as fierce and deadly as ever.

There are two places where you can always bob up uninvited without being snubbed — the church and the saloon.

STYLES IN SPORT FROCKS AND HATS

NEW YORK, May 8.—Weather that tempts one into the open and sport attire in enticingly novel styles are factors that create unusual demands for all clothes in this class.

SILK JERSEY RIGS

France is responsible for the very elaborate sport costumes in silk Jersey cloth, which seem a bit too elaborate for real wear in the open, but which have taken well at the southern resorts, and will no doubt go further north as the season progresses. Combinations of stripes and plain material make these rigs and allow for considerable variation of effect. Striped skirts and plain coats with touches of the stripe in their trimmings, or a reversal of this with a band of the striped coat material at the foot of the plain pleated skirt and sling or patch pockets and belt of the stripe to carry out the note of contrast. Almost all the skirts of silk Jersey are laid in wide side pleats to give the requisite outline and fullness since the material lacks sufficient body to hang well in plainer cut.

WASH SPORT TOGS

In the departments showing wash dresses there is a most enticing array of similarly fashioned toggery that is really practical on the links, beaches or for any sort of country wear. In these the skirts are oftenest of the stripes, in plain cut, and no combination of color is considered too glaring for this use, though one can select less screaming stripes and quieter tones if these are preferred.

FOR HARD CONTINUOUS WEAR.

For hard continuous wear in touring or going about in the National parks, which promises to be a fad this year, there are costumes of wool Jersey cloth made up on very sporty lines, with plenty of patch pockets and other devices to carry out the look of smart utility proper for such get-ups. These are apt to be developed all in one color, or in frieze mixtures that wear well and keep their freshness under all conditions. Skirts are well up toward the top of the high cut shoe and the shoe is more apt to be of tan leather than of buck or canvass, but that is again a matter of personal preference.

For the woman who likes a hard twilled fabric better. There are suits developed smartly in whipcord, while wool friezes are as ever standard materials for this type of clothes.

FLAPPER APPAREL

For the young girl between child and debutante stages, a special line of designs have been prepared which are at once youthful, smart and kind to the awkwardness that is apt to be in evidence at the "Flapper" age. Loose cut coats and blouses that hang from the shoulders and ignore the waist in favor of a hip belt line; pleated skirts and sashes, cape effects that are at once smart and concealing for angular outlines, all contribute to render first aid to the growing girl, and turn her out smartly.

SAILOR HATS YOUTHFUL

Wide sailors are the predominating youthful hat, not confined by any means to the girl contingent. The qualit yof the straw is all important for these as their trimmings are quite limited and inconspicuous. Flat brim trimmings of silk, shaped to lie perfectly smooth on the upper three-quarters of the brim, edgings of narrow ostrich or silk quillings, ribbon strappings and some sort of stick-up device at the right point are the usual garnitures. Transparent edges of straw lace, and semi-transparent brims are favored for more ornate wear, and bunches of fruit have forged to the front nearly ousting flowers for the time being.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

ORPHEUM THEATRE
(Oakland)

Years and years ago, as the good fairy stories start, there was a team in vaudeville known as Jim and Fannie Donovan. It was the kind of team that vaudeville patrons got lonesome for and every so often there was a demand made to the management that Jim and Fannie Donovan be reengaged.

And now the Oakland Orpheum announces that the same Jim Donovan, now elevated in his billing to "The King of Ireland," is here accompanied by his new partner, Miss Marie Lee, a pretty, delightful, piquant miss who is a splendid foil and counter-foil for the Celt's witticisms, and who can dance an Irish jig as well as the next colleen from the land of the shamrock.

Jim Donovan is a real Irishman and once who is blessed with more than his share of native wit. His many years on the vaudeville stage have, if anything, sharpened his keen brain and from the time he walks upon the stage until he leaves it, every moment is unalloyed enjoyment with one laugh overlapping the other.

The number of Irish comedians on the vaudeville stage has materially lessened during the last few years chiefly because there have been few who could take the place of the old time favorites and also because some of the latter could not keep abreast of the thousand and one improvements in vaudeville entertainment. Jim Donovan, however, is a shining light among those who remain. His stories are relished by the Irish people and their humor always brings due appreciation from every other nationality. As long as Jim Donovan remains on the stage, the art of the Irish comedian will never fade.

PANTAGES THEATRE
(Oakland)

Paul Periera, former court musician to ex-King Manual of Portugal, and one of the best known musicians and composers in the world, will be the headline feature, with his noted orchestra, at the Pantages for the coming week. He will be heard in some of his most famous airs, including his own compositions.

Rosie Lloyd, who will make her debut before Oakland theatregoers with the coming week's bill at the Pantages, is the "Baby" of the famous Lloyd family, and the sister of Alice and Marie Lloyd, who are well known to Amercan theatregoers. She is the cleverest of the family, according to her proud sisters, and in England has been hailed as a star of the first magnitude. She will appear in her most successful songs, and has a vain of infectious humor with her work that wins her friends with every song. Her appearance is a red letter event on the Pantages circuit.

"A Holiday in Dixie Land" is a clever musical act, replete with snappy songs and dances, and crammed with fun and color. The scene in the South of the Plantation days. Pretty girls disport themselves amid the fields of cotton, and some plantation melodies are introduced together with the big feature songs specially writen for the offering. This is one of the biggest hits of the original comedies Manager Pantages has offered the Public this season.

"The Iron Claw" grows more thrilling and more mysterious with every episode. Who is the Laughing mask?. This is the big question among the theatregoers of Oakland today. No one can tell!

The Periera offering is the highest class act of the year in vaudeville. These artists all have international reputations and are composers as well as talented musicians.

A keen interest is being taken in their appearance by Oagland's music colony, and a number of musical clubs are planning special theatre parties to hear the selections of the unique orchestra.

AT RICHMOND THEATRE

At the Richmond theater this evening, The William Fox Film Corporation presents the famous stage favorite William Farnum in a stirring drama, "The Broken Law." A production of love, tragedly and mystery, written and produced by Oscar C. Apfel of the Fox Film corporation. This is one of the most intensely interesting productions that Richmond people have had the opportunity to witness in many months. William Farnum has made himself famous in rolls such as these and in the one in which he will be seen this evening he is shown at his best. He is supported by an admirable cast of all star players.

On the same bill are the Paramount pictograph which are fast becoming favorites in their particular line. In the pictographs some of the subjects treated are, "Shall we Prepare?" by Frederick Palmer and Henry Reuterdahl, "Testing your Mind," a most entertaining experiment, "The Birth of the Arickids, Better Babies," and a political cartoon by J.R. Brady.

DON'T "CLEAN UP" YOUR OLD SUIT— BUY A NEW ONE TODAY ON CREDIT!

The recipe for keeping oneself well groomed no longer depends upon a man's pocketbook. It used to, of course, as every man knows, but ever since CHERRY'S CREDIT CLOTHING STORE opened, several years ago, the number of men who dress cleverly has incresed enormously.

There's scarcely a man in town who, regardless of his occupation, hasn't bought something on credit. As a matter of fact, real estate, furniture, musical instruments and many other things are seldom bought any other way.

The system at Cherry's Clothing Store is simplicity itself. You just buy what you want in the way of smart clothes and make a small initial payment. Then you arrange with the credit department a scedule of weekly or monthly installments. It's a big convenence, isn't it? Then why don't you make the most of it?

Cherry's stores are always open Saturday night until 10 o'clock and you'll find their stores at these addresses: Their men's clothing is at 528 13th street, and the ladie's store is at 515 13th street, The San Francisco stores are at 1009 Market street and 2400 Mission street. Other stores, Portland, Tacoma, Los Angeles and Sacramento.—Advt.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB ADOPTS PRAYER MOTTO

The Civic Center Improvement club at a meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. W. Keltz, 2256 Garvin avenue adopted the following prayer:

Keep us, Oh Lord, from pettiness, let us be big in thought and deed. Let us be done with fault-finding and cease self-seeking. Teach us to be more straight forward and unafraid. May we always be generous and never hasty in judgment.

And may we know the heart of the great common woman, the woman's heart in us all—and Oh, God, let us never forget to be kind.

The prayer is to be framed and hung in the club headquarters on Twenty-third street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rihn spent yesterday visiting with friends in Oakland.

JUVENILES JILTED BY ELKS IN RAGGED 18 TO 0 GAME AT FIRST STREET YESTERDAY

Juvenile in name and playing was responsible for the San Francisco team of that name being defeated 18 to 0 by Our Elks yesterday.

Every man except two on the Richmond team made at least one tally. Some made two and others three. While to Widmansee, an embryo gunner at Goat Island goes the laurels—he having registered on the score board four times.

The game was ragged. When a sufficient lead had been obtained by Manager Bill's players that Napoleonic person tried out several "would be's" in the pitcher's box. Cliff Cleek, discarded his mattress, cage and mitt and took a turn at heaving them over.

The game by innings:

RAILWAY WORKERS PLEAD FOR SHORTER HOURS AND MORE PAY

The Railroad Brotherhoods' are asking the railroads to better their conditions and grant an eight-hour day.

The men claim that the revenues of the companies have increased enormously on account of long heavy tonnage freight trains.

The men desire relief from the long hours of arduous labor which have increased greatly in recent years on account of the heavier and longer trains. Official reports show that there has been on increase of 33 per cent in the tractive power of locomotives, an increase of 30 per cent in the capacity of freight cars, an increase of 29 per cent in the number of freight cars in a train, an increase of 23 per cent in the number of loaded cars in a train, an increase of 19 per cent in the tons carried in the loaded car and a total increase of 47 per cent in the tons carried by the average freight train.

A statement issued by the executive committee of the Association of Western Railways, April 23, 1916, declares that the railroads received in the year 1890 $1.65 per freight train per mile and in 1914 the earnings per frieght train per mile were $3.31 or an increase of 100 per cent over 1890.

The freight train crews are producing double the revenue for the railroads according to this statement by the roads themselves.

All this shows that the freight train crew of the present time is moving a far greater amount of traffic and producing a far greater revenue for the roads than the crew of a few years ago. A greater amount of tonnage movement is thus concentrated in each of the working hours. It follows that even with a shorter work day of eight hours the freight train crew of today can move a greater amount of tonnage than the same crew moved in 10 hours a decade ago.

By increasing the tonnage moved by the train crew from year to year, the railroads increase their revenues enormously without increasing the expense of moving the train.

In the testimony of Daniel Willard, president of the B. and O. railroad before the Interstate Commerce commission, April 19, 1914, he makes a statement that the increase in the train load on the B. & O. fro 1910 to 1913 resulted in a saving of $4,500,000 in train movement expenses.

If only one railroad can save $4,500,000 by increasing the work of their train crews, the corresponding saving to all the roads in the United States amount to a tremendous total.

And yet, the railway officials inform us that the granting of an eight-hour day would cost the railroads one hundred million dollars. Aside from the fact that this estimate is "a figure of the imagination," it is assumed without any consideration whatever of the economices of train operation.

Should not a part of the "saving" to which President Willard, refers, go toward bettering the condition of the train crews whose work makes the 'savings?"

Railroad officials anticipate that freight trains will continue to become heavier and of greater tonnage.

The employes claim that by all rules of right and justice, they are entitled to a shorter work day, as their work becomes more and more arduous, taxing their strength and endurance to the limit.
